The Intelligencer.

WHEELING, MARCH 7, 1892.

THE approaching contest is rendered especially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake. The popular decision on these issues is of great moment and will be of far-reaching consequence. —James G. Blaine.

A Shrewd Dodge.

There is much shrewdness in the scheme of the free traders to knock wool in the head first of all. If the farmer be deprived of the protection he now has for his wool it will be very difficult to convince him that any manufacturer, or the labor engaged in any manufacturing industry, is worthy of better treatment, and the free traders will have accomplished one of their objects.

If they can alienate the farmer from the doctrine of a protective tariff they will have swept away from protection the defense of at least a million votes. The American farmer will not lose the protection he has for his wool until there is a Democratic Congress and a Democratic President.

The farmer who wants free wool—that is to say, who asks for it every time he votes, as he does every time he votes the Democratic ticket—would have no right to complain if the Democrats, being in power, were to give him what he has been asking for and hurrahing for. If you want protection don't ask for free trade.

A Reminiscence of Kilkenny.
Hill cannot be nominated. This fact is as well settled as it will be after the convention. Can Hill prevent Cleveland's nomination? Some usually shrewd Democratic politicians think he cannot, but these are Cleveland men.

The reasonable presumption is that there will be no more left of Hill and Cleveland than there was of the Kilkenny cats, and that was not enough to make a fur robe.

From a Republican point of view this situation is to be regretted, for the nomination of either would make an easier Republican victory than is to be expected from the nomination of any other Democrat.

Republicans are not inconsolable, however, for they start in the campaign well in the lead. The Democrats must have New York to elect, and the Republicans can get along without it.

Democracy in New York is so demoralized that it can hardly get itself together in time for serious business.

Where Are You, Mr. Pendleton?
Hon. John Amid Merrimont Pendleton and the Register charged the INTELLIGENCER with putting into an Associated Press dispatch two little words, "amid merriment," which hurt Mr. Pendleton's feelings. —The INTELLIGENCER showed that it printed the dispatch as it came and that the Register left those agony-breeding words out of the dispatch.

Mr. Pendleton can remove all doubt by making inquiry of the Associated Press. When he gets the response he will, as a man of honor, give it the same publicity he gave the original accusation; and to this the INTELLIGENCER will add without charge the wider publicity of its own columns.

If Mr. Pendleton desires to be taken seriously he must show that he is a serious person.

Shut Them Out.

Immigrants of all sorts continue to come in, and the country continues to do nothing of a practical character to keep them out. Instead of sparing for position in the campaign it would be more creditable if congressmen without regard to party would consent to take up this pressing matter and give the country relief.

Every day makes a worse situation. Everybody knows there is an overproduction of undesirable immigrants, everybody knows it should be stopped. Why not stop it? Congress has the power.

This Is Instructive.

Here are a few lines of instruction. Before the McKinley tariff was enacted imported tulle paid a duty of 20 per cent and sold at three cents a pound. The McKinley act, in response to a demand for free tulle, placed that commodity on the free list. Now when you go to buy tulle you pay five and a half cents a pound. Taking off the tariff has almost doubled the price. Trust our foreign friends to take advantage of a good opportunity.

Genius to the Front.

Our esteemed cotemporary, Col. John L. Sullivan, is still in the ring and a little more clipper than ever. Albeit a great actor now, he is willing to put in his vacation knocking the life out of the pugilists who have been waging such deadly warfare with their lungs.

The spirit of '76 is at high tide in John L.'s veins, and if Slavin, Mitchell or Corbett desires to know what this means he has only to face the gallant knocker and get a taste of his quality.

After that the improvement in Col. Sullivan's histrionic abilities will be attested by the increased crowds at his performances. It may become necessary for him to give his shows in ten-acre lots so that everybody can get in.

The other day General Lew Wallace, against his protest, was elected a delegate to the Minneapolis convention. He declines to serve on the ground that his personal honor is involved. He asks that the honor be conferred on the man who was defeated by his name being sprung on the convention. General Wallace says he is for Harrison and will do his fighting as a private.

Robinson, the young Englishman killed in Yokohama by Lieutenant Hetherington, U. S. N., said on his death bed that he had only been flirting with Mrs. Hetherington. That isn't a good thing to do either. —It should be well understood that husbands will not stand that kind of thing. The American husband abroad is teaching some lessons these days.

There is no sadder story of wrong and wretchedness than that which tells of the destruction of the industries of Ireland by the English policy of free trade in the interest of the English manufacturer. In an article which the INTELLIGENCER is glad to reproduce the Irish woman touches this topic with a sharp-pointed pen.

TIMOTHY HOPKINS with $3,000,000 of his adopted mother's good money to his credit cannot hope for admission to Mr. McAllister's One Hundred and Fifty, but he can afford to spend a few pennies on a newspaper containing one of McAllister's articles on the way to be respectable though fashionable.

The horrible job the guillotine made of its work in Germany the other day suggests that this instrument of death does best in the hands of those who speak its language. You don't hear of guillotine bungles and hackings in France, where the thing stands on its native heath, so to say.

A PENNSYLVANIA girl, ten years old, jumped the rope 840 times without a miss, and then the poor little soul passed to a land where we may assume that rope-skipping contests are not allowed. If this child had parent or guardian the law should have some serious business with that person.

When a Democrat solemnly assures you that there is no chance of a Republican triumph in West Virginia this year, he means that so far as he knows nothing has happened in West Virginia since the flood with which Noah was prominently identified.

Brice and McLean want to know whether they are big enough and bold enough to get the Ohio delegation for Hill. They are the kind of men to represent the kind of man Hill is, but it is doubtful whether the pole is long enough to reach the persimmons.

The Democratic scheme to cut all appropriations down to a point far below necessities so as to go before the country with a false claim that they have economized in expenditures, will not work. The people are too intelligent to be caught by such chaff.

If Congress is in line with public sentiment it knows that the people are in favor of appropriating the money necessary to make the World's Fair a credit to the country. The people not only want this done but they want it done promptly.

The street-sweepers of New York are to be uniformed. In Wheeling we would be satisfied to have our armed with the proper implements of their office and kept at work long enough to allow us to have the pleasure of their acquaintance.

Wool was never lower the world over than it has been during the past season. The wool tariff has been a God-send to the American producer. It has stood between him and the world's enormous production marketed at its lowest prices.

There is something odd about the English sparrow. The more you kill him the more there are of him. The capability of wholesale reproduction after death is something which the birdologists have not stopped to explain.

Since there is no longer any chance of working Wall street with stories of Jay Gould's death, Chicago talent may as well let up on that industry and try the effect of a story that Jay Gould has reformed.

If the more money howlers would stop howling long enough to tell how the fellow who has nothing to exchange is to get his share of it they would seem less preposterous.

"BILLY" Florence's brother never heard that a daughter had been born to the comedian and his accomplished wife. What! Never heard of "Libbie dear?"

The colored people of North Carolina own $8,000,000 of real and personal property. The bottom rail is doing pretty well, all things considered.

Mr. INGRAM seems willing to return to the senate via Kansas. A great state should not desire to over-work a willing servant.

AFTER such a Sunday as yesterday everybody should be able to go to his work to-day in good spirits. It was an ideal day.

A SCARCITY of fish is recorded in New York. Is that city going to leap Lent this year?

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

The general term at Syracuse has set aside the curious will of John Nelson, deceased. John and Jane, being husband and wife, caused wills to be made for the benefit of each other, and both were prepared at the same time by a competent lawyer and laid upon the table together. John signed one will and Jane the other, and both were sealed up in an envelope, where they remained till after the husband's death. When they were opened it was found that each party had signed the wrong will. Mrs. Nelson brought suit to correct her husband's mistake in signing the wrong will, but both at special and general term the decision has been against her.

Miss Etta H. Spencer, the only woman train dispatcher in New England road, after ten years' active service in that capacity, has been relieved from further duty. The division is considered the hardest single-track road to manage on the entire system on account of its many trains and tremendous freight business.

One hundred thousand dollars was recently left by an eccentric French woman named Cabouret to any compatriot who will penetrate with 500 companions further into the wilds of Africa than any one has ever yet gone. A condition of the will is that half of the caravan must return safely.

Divers who helped to lay the foundation of the great Eads bridge that while they were under a pressure of four "atmospheres," or sixty pounds to the square inch, the ticking of a watch was absolutely painful to the ear. They also found it impossible to whistle.

William L. Washburn died recently at Easthampton, Mass., possessed of a house (overlooking the Connecticut river, near Williamsburg) in which his ancestors had lived for nearly 200 years. It now becomes the property of his son, William L. Washburn.

Fred Tatal, a well known Western rider, has signed a contract by which he gets $17,000 for his services as a jockey for two stables this year, and he expects to get more than half as much more from outside riding.

Maria Moran is a pretty eighteen-year-old girl of Newark, N. J., whose name is one of praise in that city. When courage failed the regular nurses she volunteered for service at the small-pox hospital there.

A girl four years old, three feet two inches high, and who measures two feet three inches around the waist, is what the Marion, N. C., people are boasting about just now.

A French officer has devised a rifle that will throw a stream of vitriol for a distance of over 2,000 feet, to be used against savages when they attempt rushes.

A company has been formed in Chicago to run "buses on the boulevards," propelled by accumulators or other electrical appliances.

Bogus medical diplomas, not of fictitious colleges but of reputable institutions, are sold in New York at from $300 to $500 each.

Out of 100 Indian students returned from Hampton institute, Virginia, to the reservation, only two have been failures.

Arizona has been organized territorially for nearly thirty years, and has a population of 70,000.

A couple whose ages aggregated 146 years were married a few days ago at Fort Dodge, Iowa.

PERSONAL POINTS.

The story goes that Paderewski, a few nights ago, played before a select company at the residence of a wealthy Chicago man, and received a check for $1,000 as compensation. Not long afterward he "sat in" with a poker party, which included his host, and lost not only the $1,000 check but several high notes not included in musical notation.

Rev. Dr. Arthur T. Pierson, formerly of Detroit, is said to be the most popular candidate for the pastorate of the London tabernacle. A difficulty in the way is that the pastor must be a Baptist, and Dr. Pierson is a Presbyterian. But it is rumored that this difficulty will be overcome by his becoming a Baptist.

When James Whitcomb Riley was a youth he was in such poor health that the doctors prescribed travel. This he could not afford. He therefore joined an itinerant show and thus secured an outdoor life for several months. The experience proved highly beneficial.

President Eliot, of Harvard college, has left for a two months' trip to the Pacific coast. He will stop at Denver and pass over into Utah. He is to examine Leland Stanford university. After that he will look through Oregon, Washington and the Selkirk.

The composer Rossini was one of the laziest of mortals. After he had produced his crowning triumph, "Guillaume Tell," composed at the age of thirty-seven, he passed thirty-nine years in inactivity, amusing himself at Bologna by fishing and pig farming.

Gladstone even now takes his regular six mile walk every day with as much enthusiasm, if not quite as much vigor, as in youth.

Mrs. Grant has up to date received from the Scribners as her share in Gen. Grant's book, the amount of $14,855.28.

There is an effort making in Savannah to build a monument to Father Ryan, the poet priest of the confederacy.

SPRING, GENTLE SPRING.

Clothing and Furnishings.

Come, put away the winter big, And the seakins cap we wore, For gentle spring is coming on, We shall not need them more.

Pull down the camouflated trunk, Forth from the attic hide, And pack those winter clothes away, For spring is drawing nigh.

And when we get them peeked away, On out of sight, Why, then, We'll never want to shake 'em find That cold snap's here again.

Do not be Deceived.

Persons with weak lungs—those who are continually catching cold—should wear an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER over the chest and another between the shoulder blades during cold weather. Remember they always strengthen and never weaken the part to which they are applied. Do not be deceived by imitating any other plaster like them—they are not—may look it, but looks deceiver. Insist always on having ALLCOCK'S, the only reliable plaster ever produced.

THERE is no danger from whooping cough when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given. It liquefies the tough, tenacious mucus and aids in its expectoration. It also lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, and insures a speedy recovery. There is not the least danger in giving it to children or babies, as it contains no injurious substance. 50 cent bottles for sale by C. R. Goetze, W. W. Irwin, John Klari, C. Schnepf, C. Menckmiller, W. S. McCullough, M. W. Heinzel, W. E. Williams, S. L. Brice, John Coleman and W. H. Williams, Wheeling, W. Va.; Bowie & Co., Bridgeport, Ohio; B. F. Peabody, Benwood, W. Va.

A GOOD SHOW.

We are always advising you to advertise, and to keep on advertising, but that does not cover the ground entirely. Of course, you should make your advertising effective—if an electric light be available, you should not use a "tallow dip" to light the path to your store.

What do we mean by that? Simply that the more conspicuous, the more artistic, the more attractive, the more original you make your advertisements, the more people will see and read them, and the more customers you will have to contribute to your cash-drawer.

Study effects in bold pretty type—good matter may be spoiled by ugly dressing. Seek to catch the eye by a display of good taste in the style and arrangement of your announcement.

Above all, let it be bold enough to be easily read. Don't vex a reader by vexing his or her eyes!
